President Siefkes' Congratulatory

Vital forces of the Church, in nature, often operate unobserved and unheralded. Wartburg College is plainly true of the faithful service of the Lutheran Church for ages. Word would the Church be without their devoted workers in the field of education? Dean J. A. Nommensen, Rev. Paul Kuntz, Professor Prange, Professor A. Conrad, and Professor Fritz Kuntz have completed twenty-five years of teaching in the Lutheran Church of Middle West. They have been faithful servants of the Lord and Church of our Church in their respective positions. Their unassuming character, their devotion in the steadfastness of their duties, their love for the Lutheran Church and their fellowship among the people with whom they have served, all bear witness of the teaching and effective influence in behalf of the Lutheran Church. The entire Lutheran Church I wish to congratulate you upon these twenty-five years of service which they have rendered to the Church of our God, and to thank them for what they have been and for what they have done. May the Lord who alone can reward them grant them time to bless them in their work and in their fellowship. We wish them to know that we appreciate the service they have given to the Lord quietly still. Their character and their service we desire to follow as examples to the character of Wartburg. May God grant that Wartburg shall be in the years to come.

Herman W. Siefkes, President Iowa District, American Lutheran Church.

A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

It is good news that "The Wartburg Trumpet" is a coming issue and to take proper notice of the faithful services, for more than 25 years in one of our Church's colleges, of four members of the present Wartburg faculty.

It fits the editorial staff, the college administration and faculty and the student body, board of directors and alumni friends to express sincere congratulations to Dean Nommensen, Dr. Wiederaenders, Prof. Heist and Prof. Curnils.

Words of appreciation should not be reserved for a man's obituary but should be said or written at a time while a man is living and while his service is on hand. It is to be done now for these my four friends.

In addition they have been in teaching and their other jobs they have served the Church and their students well by the fine example of Christian life and character which they have given May God bless and keep them and continue to use them in His service for many years to come.

The Trumpet sure gets around. Sgt. H. E. Rennings ('38-'39) who is stationed in New Guinea, recently received the Trumpet and enjoyed it very much. He writes that during the last year he has traveled many miles and has seen many things some good and some not so good. He sends greetings to the faculty and says he is anxiously waiting for the time when he may once again see them.

WARTBURGERS OF LONG STANDING

Most of the present faculty are Wartburgers of long standing. Many of them are Wartburg graduates. A little investigation has shown that the average time which this issue has been dedicated are as definitely a part of Wartburg as the very buildings which now make up the school.

Dean Neuman received his A. B. from Wartburg in 1907, studied at the University of Berlin for two years, taught German at the University of Iowa for one year and then joined the Wartburg faculty, in 1911. "CONGRATULATIONS"

It as Abraham Lincoln who said, 'What I am I owe to my mother.' Many are the students who are ready to admit that what they are they owe to their professors. Such testimony is an expression of appreciation he these faculty members of Wartburg College who have so ably and faithfully served our Church's educational institutions for more than 25 years. We refer to Dr. G. Neuman, Dr. W. Wiederaenders, Prof. E. G. Heist, and Prof. J. Cornili.

These leaders have seen hundreds of pre-theological men out into the world fully prepared to take their places in society. They have seen the dark clouds of war menace mankind's horizon; they were victims of the crisis which confronted our Church; but their loyalty to Christ and His Kingdom never wavered.

To these men who have moulded our lives and made them useful in the Master's service, we express our sincere gratitude and solicit God's grace upon their continued labors.

Rev. L. L. Belk, Chairman;
Board of Regents.

Importance of Social Work Stressed in New Courses

Rev. C. Becker Is Instructor.

Recently, attention was focused upon the new and expanding field of social work. Many high schools cross outstanding opportunities for graduates interested primarily for the later. Jobs are a surety in the social field for at least the next ten years. There are numerous openings in recreation and while salary scales are rather low there are many social workers such as Wartburg plans to train who receive salaries from $1,200 to $2400 a year. Supervisors in this field receive more and there are more than the regular store members. Teachers in the department of the department of the department of

Religious News and Views

By PAUL KELLER

Another school term is drawing to a close. Some of us will never return for academic work, while others, after this war is over, perhaps will return to continue their studies.

Farewells bring back memories of all sorts. Recently the Editor of this column made a survey which experimented a cross section of Wartburg's student body, and the question was asked them: "What is the most important thing Wartburg has given you?" Many answered, "Christian Fellowship." One student remarked that it was something so great that words could not express it.

Volumes have been written on the subject of Christian Fellowship of which many look upon it primarily as something spiritual and consequently are overlooking a very important aspect of Christian fellowship, fellowship in Christ, or the Holy Christian Church. In our day and every day, must be gone from a mere belief in Christ as Christ as Redeemer of the soul. Such outlook is entirely too one-sided necessary if we are to have any lasting and satisfactory inter-action between ourselves and Christ. Fellowship implies action as well as faith, and likewise Christian fellowship implies inter-action between believers as they work in unison for the purpose to bring the world to Christ.

There are no political philosophies, no man made schemes of ideal states which can claim the power of breaking down racial hatred as well as racial barriers and bring men together in peace and mutual belief. The stark realist claims all schemes of peace are utterly futile and absurd, and that everything since the time of Christ is a complete sham from the dead on Easter morning. The world was and those of the past, plus all the war and carnage of yesterday might appear to be a contradiction to the above statement. The well-acknowledged fact however is that Christianity lacks workers.

Universal Fellowship

Excluding all scientific terminology, we need more Christian fellowship between men. This statement of course is not a new one and even the scientific minds get weary hearing the same proposals set forth from the best minds in the world and used between men, for the success of any society in which we can hope to have in order and peace. Attempts for peace based on pagan philosophies have proven themselves utter failures.

Failure has not been able to cancel a way of life which can exist in every society or culture. Selfish man is blind, so kind that he can not even see he is a good thing when he sees one. Christianity has the power to open the eyes of selfish man and to make him see that he is unable to control himself unless he is accepted by the majority.

Perhaps with these facts in mind one can realize the significance when the president of Wartburg believe that they have found Christian fellowship here. They then have learned the principles which every man must face when he is confronted with the problems of winning peace and freedom. Christian institutions of higher learning are standing on the brink of a new era. Of all our existing universities and colleges it is only the church school which can claim an over-all Christian philosophy which the others have not.

Church Schools

The Christian church must not teach their young people how to make a living, but what is more important, they teach them how to live. Wartburg College must not compromise, but acknowledge its existence as a church school and its services, with the ends of secular peace and freedom.

It is only as we, if we Lutherans gathered for concerted effort in the teachings and ideals of Christ that we can claim the power of breaking down racial hatred as well as racial barriers and bring men together in peace and mutual belief. The stark realist claims all schemes of peace are utterly futile and absurd, and that everything since the time of Christ is a complete sham from the dead on Easter morning. The world was and those of the past, plus all the war and carnage of yesterday might appear to be a contradiction to the above statement. The big drive for funds for the Memorial Library neared $10,000 in small gifts and donations. It is hoped that about $24,000 can be collected for this fund.

Dr. Wickey pointed out the alarming situation in the student church in wartime by means of the following statistics. In 1940 14,000 men entered the theological schools of the country but at the present time only 6,000 are there. In the past month 2,000 have been drafted and have entered the theological seminaries.

Pres. Bodenstedt announced dates for the two periods of summer school. The first session will begin on Monday, May 29; after two weeks vacation the second session will begin on Monday, July 24. Then after a period of a month, the fall session will begin on Monday, October 2.

Tronardo Mercado, Mexican Missionary, Speaks in Convo.

President Braulick called attention to the results of laziness in a Monday convocation. On Monday, May 1, Irving Proverbs 24:30-34 was read by the president. Solomon as a remarkably observing boy. Solomon went to the field and found a vineyard overgrown and with nettles. The speaker concluded, "Laziness is the devil that will do you that makes for suffering."

Rev. Walter Friedel of Charles City was the guest speaker for Wednesday convocation. The theme of his message was the "Christian and Citizenship within its a sense of responsibility." The speaker said that the Christians must prevent our society from becoming decay. Everything that is not prevented must be repaired. He stated that there are experts in the moral field. Let not you and I step down to the level of the world, but rather set it up to the level of Christ. Rev. Friedel, Monday, May 8, Harold Hemering spoke to the convocation audience on Saint Paul's achievement to the Romans. "Not idolatry, in business, forsaking is again serving the Lord." The speaker continued the life of the Christian to the politics of the business man. Christians must learn how to apply both competition and cooperation. In the conclusion, the speaker said, "If we expect to be true servants of God we must first learn to serve our neighbor."

Missionary Tronardo Mercado from the Mexican Gospel Mission was the speaker on Monday, May 15. The speaker said that God's plan was revealed in the bodies of man today. He said man can make an emptiness for God's spirit, therefore we should take care of them. "It is best," he said, "to offer one's self to the service of God while yet young and healthy." The speaker then illustrated how God is also able to give to men a new mind. In closing, he said, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved in body and in soul."

On Tuesday, May 9, Dr. Braulick used the epistle of Jude as the theme for convocation. The speaker said, "Jude is trying to save those who are on the edge—he is trying to warn these Christians of his day". Applying this message to the Christians of today, he said, "Christ never criticized the sinner. He came to pray, he would tell them to go and sin no more. That was Jesus' way of saving sinners, and isn't it the kind we want today."

1944 Fortress

"The 1944 Fortress will be ready for the students by Monday," Editor Irene Gustmann announced today. The Trumpet wants to be the first to congratulate the staff on the excellent bit of work. It's nice! We know it's good because we've seen it!

Organizations

The German club of Wartburg College held its last meeting of the present school year yesterday evening at 6:30 p. m. A light and heartening group of twenty turned out for this important meeting. The meeting was opened with the singing of numerous favorite songs and hymns.

After a short discussion concerning the methods of paying for the club's picture in the Fortress, the business part of the meeting took up the matter of elections of next semester officers. Fred Heupel is to lead the organization as its new president, succeeding Leroy Miller. Neil Hilton will assume the vice presidency, while Dennis Koehler will be the new secretary-treasurer. Rudy Mutterer was chosen to be the news reporter for the Trumpet. Professor Dorsch was unanimously chosen to remain the able advisor of the club.

Plans for the afternoon at this meeting was justified the consensus of the German club as an active organization on the school campus.

Two Choir Members Review Another Successful Season

A TENOR AND A SOPRANO HAVE REMINISCENCE

It began back in September when freshmen were green, but even vigor Clarence Grindel's choir "try-outs" BEAUTIFUL SAVIOR had never been so bold to sing before, and never has been so much joy in singing as there was in the choir. Everyone tipped over be able to tell which tone was higher—or lower in the hall. Secretly, the "try-outers" thought it was a fight because they all sounded like to them.

Finally the suspense was over, and you crowded around the bulletin board and—you made the—you were in the Wartburg Choir.

SOME ON THE ROAD. The very first number the choir sang, I'll bet Prof. Lienohn never had the attention of the choir so well as he had that day. The music came in all right, too!

After that the choir sang at several places and became quite good at practicing for Christmas—numbers that they sang at the community concert.

The Miracle

Meanwhile work was progressing on the Robert Nagler Wilson opera, "The Miracle." The lords, Hans Sundrock; Lady, Grace, Paul Keller, Herb Broderius, Darlene Brandt, Merel Ehlke, Betty Hankyon, Herman Maasch and Edward Fritchel were practicing not only their music but also their bowing, kneeling and all—dastardly!

Herman Maasch was probably the first Japanese with a southern accent. The boys seemed right—perfect. Most females and men alike were startled when the "Japs" surrendered. Nobody ever knew what happened to the rest of the boys and got finished.

Prof. and Mrs. Lienohn entertained the entire class at a tea after the performance. It was here that Prof. Lienohn, Helen Maasch, the accompanist, and Miss Helen Wright who was responsible for the Japanese costumes were presented with gifts from the cast.

No sooner had the choir really removed their masks than they began working on the numbers which were to make up their "home programs." Every other week there was a program broadcast from Grace Presbyterian. The audience enjoyed these revelations. The fact is enjoying them so much that he insisted on hearing one group of tenors sing off against—and again—and again!!

Didn't it "sound" give you a nice feeling inside whenever Prof. Lienohn entered the practice room, and after laying his baton on the piano, would say, "Now, please." And then after the prayer you would sit up for the usual "On the stand" before you began to sing. Sometimes, maybe even "please" and "thank you" were heard. Which, of course, seemed very different but which everyone loves now. Or then after the last practice—a few last minute instructions.

First Concert

The time had arrived—our first concert was just a few weeks off. The most hour and a half imposed on choirdy. Yes, it was and went over wonderfully well. It was a success.

And so it went Sunday after Sunday until we had appeared in Tripoli, Sumner, the home concert, Hampton and Manchester. Everywhere we sang it was the same.

No one will ever forget the last concert. Everyone did their best and didn't Prof. Lienohn look like a regular bull in the center of the boxes? At the first intermission boys were sure some of the numbers must have crashed from the balcony above.

Number four in group three—that means "Praise to the Lord"—is the last number on the concert. You sang as you had never sang before. Prof. Lienohn held that last note out long—then he cut off with the baton, and it was all over.

So it's all over now and the choir may look back to the years with the finale in mind but a concert which will be remembered for a long, long time to come. And what more could you want?—By a Soprano and a Tenor.

Speaker

The Rev. W. Keller of Jamestown, North Dakota, will deliver the commencement address May 23. He is the founder and head of the Jamestown hospital. John Keller, new student body president, and Paul, who is one of the graduates, are son of Rev. Keller.

Hidden Mysteries of Museum in Old Main Are Revealed

VALUABLE RELICS IN COLLECTION

Recently I made an amazing discovery. It wasn't a new science, or a distant planet, or a process for making synthetic rubber—but, to me, it was just as startling and just as revealing. I discovered that Wartburg college has a museum.

Now, I've been attending Wartburg almost a year. I've been entering Old Main about three times a day and sometimes I enter its portals I spend about five minutes, reading letters, talking and loafing. That means that in all this time I don't use eight or ten minutes. I passed thought my racks, relics, curious combinations and stamps. What's more, I'll bet forty cents I know it either.

A week or so ago it was my pleasant little duty to return some reserve books to the shelf on the old main. I noticed that one of the doors on third floor was ajar, and so I took the liberty of looking in. I was standing there in the middle of the floor scoring out some old math exercises, when uniforms—I could hear him muttering under his breath some thing about, "My Kingdom for some more room." I walked to the room and took a look at the remains of a museum once more, and also uniform—I had more relics in it than the museum has on the front of our college. The rocks, the stamps, the coins, and the letters and notes from my family—all neatly courting at every moment.

After a little coaxing and high pressure persuasion Ebbo agreed to show me the museum, thereby giving special emphasis to the various displays. I'm not exaggerating one bit when I say they were some of the most interesting moments of my life.

Old Relics

He showed me a flintlock picked up on the battle field of Gettysburg during the Revolutionary War and which had been turned back to General Washington because of Pennsylvania-Valley Forge—a very quaint history. Then in the same show case I saw carefully pointed out a double barreled percussion pistol and proudly was told, "It was used in the Civil War, I know the grandson of the man who used it." Confidentially whispered he, "It still works." I also saw an old squirrel rifle with brass trimmings, from Kentucky. A double barreled bahld shotgun from Germany, a couple of cartridges used in the Civil War, a rifle from the Spanish American War, bullets galore from World War I, and from World War II, a Japanese rifle, a sword taken from the Spanish American War. By this time my mind was so dazed that all I could say was, "Lead on—I'll follow."

It's now hallah relics galore—canes, spearheads, lance points, spurs, drills, war bonnets, beaded Mexican pouches, Moccasins, Indian beads, (I saw enough Indian materia), to supply the Zama reservation for the next 50 years.

Then Ebbo walked over to the middle of the room and came back with a log. (About the size Grony used in her kitchen stove.) I thought he wanted me to take it down in the basement, out of the way. I nearly collapsed when he told me it was a portion of the original timbers taken from the hull of "Old Ironsides." It reminded me of the lines—"Her deck once red with heroes blood." I scrutinized it carefully but could find no traces of blood.

Precious Stones

We moved to another room and my eyes was attracted by a fire opal. "That's nothing," said Ebbo—"There's an uncut diamond, here's a garnet, here's a sapphire, here's a zircon, here's a tiger's eye and here's an emerald." And I saw a polished agate from Africa and a very fine slice of lava from Hawaii, also the skull of a two headed calf, I saw a petrified bullfish heart, I even saw a Holy Smoked—You know what I forgot to take that scenery up to the attic. It's still on the college truck. I gotta rush right over and get rid of it or both Charlie and Miss Mayfield will be on my neck. Better stop at the museum and see the rest for yourself—there's a lot more that I haven't told you about— Why? There's even a stone from the ruins of . . . .

Holy Smoked Here comes Charlie and Miss Mayfield and they're headed this way ! ! ! ! Ohhhhhh! Anonymous

Hot Coals From -:-The Ash Can -:-

This is the last bunch of "Hot Coals" you'll be reading for a while. You know that means a little to others it means a lot. Most of us get in a little trouble when we see our name in this column, but down in our hearts we kinda liked it—if we didn't we'd have quit writing it at once when the new "TRUMPET" came out! Anyway, we'll miss you and appreciate nice about being in the "Hot Coals."

Spring has come and the young male's fancy turns to things that the girls have been thinking about all winter . . . .

George (Bud) Ehlke admits that the river bank is a nice place but what he can't figure out is why it always so crowded.

Ray Dunn has been making rather regular visits to the dog kennels.

Der Ray Scattoff is turning into quite a Bone Babe, if you know what we mean.

Say, Mick, I hear Ed has the mumps.

Mickey: Yeah, and there was talk once that night too! We know what the ice cream meant to Ed this time but not another way of spreading germs.

Those eloquent orthodontists to those lifted fingers who are losing their grit fronted for five months.

Don't anyone tell us what happened between Don and Leola!

If you look behind your ear,
And there you find some stripes,
The chances are ten to one
That you have the mumps.

If you look in the mirror some time,
And see your face covered with little red dots,
You can say it's measles, but
Why did it come in spots?

MERLE KLEEN HURLS 8-5 WIN FOR IOWA STATE

CYCLONE

Merle Kleen, probably known because of his outstanding athletic achievements at Wartburg, added another link to his chain of triumphs Sunday when he hurled a victory over the Minnesota Gophers while playing with Iowa State.

Merle is stationed with the V-12 unit at Iowa State and has been since his enlistment early in March. He has to compete with some of the best talent in the country to keep his berth on the Cyclone nine.

The fact that the Wartburg lad was pitted against Iowa's ace team (3-1 and only defeat) and Merle's victory were even more outstanding. He allowed only three hits, scattered them, and defeated them 8 to 5.

Merle pitched five innings of last Saturday's game against the Seahawks which the Cyclones won 7 to 6, but the cold weather forced Merle to leave the game after the first five innings in which he allowed only three hits. He was not knocked out of the box, but asked to leave the game.

Merle's activities in baseball and basketball are well known here at Wartburg, and the college is behind him 100 per cent for more success in all new positions.

"Shorty" Sailer Named Captain

Lawrence "Shorty" Sailer, senior from Ryceon, Ore., has been named captain of the 1944 Knights basketball squad, coach Ralph Ott of the two seasters on this year's team and one of the four returning lettermen from last year's squad.

Playing third base last year, Lawrence helped round the 1943 team a winning organization. He showed his versatility by taking over mound duties in the first game of the 1944 season against Luther. He has also had experience in the outfield and will be used there if he isn't needed on the mound.

Lawrence will enter the seminary after graduation.

ALUMNI

Vince LaBahn ('44) the only boy who lived in Wartburg Hall for many years, was home for a few weeks ago to visit his mother but made necessary preparations before applying for admission to the Navy and left Monday from Waterloo for Chicago where he has been placed as general chemist at the U. S. Gypsum Co. in Chicago.

Romayne Ritter ('42) who is working for Atlas Powder Co. (Stanford, Conn., is also making application for Navy Ensign.

Doris L. Marcellus ('35-'36) has been promoted to Pharmacist's mate 2nd class. Her present address is: 31 Smyrna Ave., Ames, Iowa.

Our freshmen math students of the last few years, all remember Leonard Sandstad as the student who helped them solve their problems. He entered the service last fall and at present is helping the WAACs solve some problems of Math either. He is teaching them the type of statistical work which he has been doing at Stout Field. In June he will be transferred.

Phyllis Braulick, who recently spent a few days in Waverly with his parents, Pres. and Mrs. Braulick, has once again been moved. He has been transferred from the Replacement unit of Denver, Colo., where he had been attending leadership school, to Camp Grant, Ill., where he is a member of the medical corps.

(Alumni editors note) Lack of space makes it impossible to publish all the changes of address of our service men. The correct addresses may be obtained by writing the Public Relations Office, Wartburg College.

Looking 'Em Over

By JACK MEYER

The first year in which Wartburg really felt the drain of the war is over. Yes, this year was an all but empty, but if you remember, we didn't lose many of our athletes until the end of the school year. We felt the hardships of war as school started this year and the athletic department has been working all year to overcome that burden as best it could. Let's look back and see just what kind of a job we've done.

Varsity football with inter-collegiate competition we never realized at Wartburg this year. We probably would have had enough men to put a team on the field but transportation problems and lack of competition prevented us from doing so at that. Coach Hertel solved this problem in good form by organizing the touch football league. No, it didn't hold all the thrills, excitement and glamour that varsity football does but it did fill the fighting spirit so characteristic of Wartburg competition. The boys were given a chance to show their ability and a chance to get rid of some excess energy in good clean competition. No one can deny that that problem was solved very well.

Basketball.

Came basketball season and the same problem was faced. It was not quite as big a problem since the number of men required for a team was less and be transported to the different colleges was not as large. When we looked over our men who were out for basketball, we realized that none of them were the no-sized 7-foot stuff who are looked upon to do the impossible in athletic activities. We realized that Coach Ott would have to build a team out of men who didn't have all kinds of high school records. And build one he did. Go to the Knights' home games, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday and the real team of the season and proud of it they are worthy of the name. They've given us a thrill or two. They won games in spite of the fact that they were just "one of us".

The cage season ended in March and our thoughts turned again to spring sports, baseball, track and golf. Many players arose whether we would have enough men for a team and whether we would have enough men for a team and whether we could find inter-collegiate competition. Some how or other there were enough men and we did find a few competitors to schedule games with. As near as I can see, Wartburg has a full track squad for the first time in years. So far the weather has kept us from scheduling any tennis matches and it probably will for the rest of the year, but we can be proud of our baseball and track teams.

It's orchids to you football men, to you basketball players and to you tennis and baseball men for going to Wartburg and being so proud of! And to our athletic department we say, a tough job, well done!

Summer Time.

It's just about time for summer session to begin and some of you are wondering what the athletic set-up will be during those three months. Will there be inter-collegiate competition? No, there will be none, but there will be plenty of things to do here on our own campus for you, more enjoyable. There can always be an "after supper" soft-ball game.

Soon the tennis courts will be in shape, we have plenty of archery equipment, badminton equipment and the city pool will soon be open for those of you who like to swim. The swimming parties were a lot of fun last summer. Yes, there'll be plenty of chance to work off some of that excess fat you have picked up during the long winter months.

This is the last Trumpet for this year, and from the way things look now, most of us who are working on the Trumpet this year won't be around next year. It's been fun working on the paper and I hope it's been at least partially successful. So, it's "30" for now, until the next issue, wherever that may be.

Track Season Has Mark of Success for Wartburg Squad

MAX DIEMER LEADS GROUP

Although the 1944 Wartburg track team did not come away with all the glory and fame during the early characteristic of a successful season, the improvement of track activities this season cover former efforts gives it a certain mark of success.

The former years track was a very minor sport at Wartburg and there was little or no participation whatsoever. One or two track men at all Wartburg could boast of in the past seasons and the interest was almost nil.

This year in spite of manpower shortages and in spite of difficulties presented by the war, the interest in track at Wartburg has increased a tremendous boost. Instead of the usual one or two out for track, the current season has seen 8 or 10 men working on the different types of track activities.

Our hats are off to Max Diemer, senior from Sumner, Iowa, who throughout his college career has done all he could to bring about more and better track at Wartburg. He has participated in every meet Wartburg has entered since he began college.

He was in three pitchin' all the time. For three reasons and many more, we name Max our honorary track captain for 1944.

Max does most of his work with the hurled jumps, taking third place in the conference meet last year and adding second place honors this year.

Besides Max, the following men constitute the 1944 Knights track squad: Vic Gold, Fritz Haupel, Lowell Koch, Ed Fritschel, Herman McIsaac, Wilfred Mueller and Elden Mouldenhauer.

They have participated in the following meets: A triangular meet with Simpson and Penn, at Simpson in which they took second place honors, the Drake Relays, the Conference meet held at Dubuque, Iowa.

Track looked good at Wartburg this year and the possibilities that track holds should be reason enough for bigger and better track teams in the future.

A total of 889 hours have been contributed to date by Wartburg Red Cross workers.
